BEEF COMMISSION SITES IN WINNIPEG

Witnesses Heard Testify to Belief in Combine and Favor to Big Dealers.

Winnipeg, July 31.—The beef commission is opening its sessions in Winnipeg yesterday, the examination of witnesses taking place in the court house. A. M. Campbell and A. E. Middleton were the members of the commission, witnesses being called by A. H. Haggart, K.C. J. J. Gold, deputy minister of agriculture was present.

James Kiddell, of Carman, was the first witness. He was quite satisfied with the price he got for his cattle. There was a good deal of confusion in his district, and although he had heard of a combine he had no knowledge of it.

Believe Combine Exists.
B. L. Richardson, the next witness, described the combine that he had carried on in the Winnipeg Tribune and in the afternoon he said that in his judgment the wholesalers "milked the cattle."

John Dow, Woodlands; John Boy Starbuck, and C. G. Carson, St. Charles, gave evidence as to the prices they obtained for cattle and pigs, and the difference they had in finding buyers and declared that their inference was that a combination existed.

Big Dealers Favored.
J. B. Richardson, the next witness, gave a well known witness before the beef commission, gave much in evidence regarding the conditions in this city. During the course of his evidence he several times accused the council of incompetence and asserted that he believed there were methods by which men with pull could obtain what they wanted.

He stated that the mayor was not so much engaged with his own business and store to look into the vexatious questions arising out of the local butcher trade. Mr. Laurin stated that there was discrimination made everywhere against the small man in favor of the big dealer in the city by laws of the local municipalities, as the C. P. R., which gave such a rebate on carloads shipped to Montreal to the big dealers that he could realize several hundred dollars on a hundred head of cattle, while the small men would lose a large amount.

The witness advocated a change by a public slaughter house, and as the evidence he several times accused the council of incompetence and asserted that he believed there were methods by which men with pull could obtain what they wanted.

TO SURVEY 20,000 ACRES.

Their work is to lay out into homesteads, 20,000 acres of land between the Athabasca and Pomona Rivers. The tract takes in old Fort Assiniboine and comprises some of the most fertile and well watered land in the Edmonton district.

Estate Divided After 20 Years.
Cleveland, Ohio, July 31.—After years of litigation the estate of Alva Bradley, valued at about five million dollars, was divided equally among two heirs, Alva Bradley, who was a wealthy widow and real estate owner, died over 20 years ago and left his estate in trust for 20 years before it was divided.

STRAITHCONA NEWS

CORNER STONE LAID WEDNESDAY

Appropriate Ceremony in Connection With the Oddfellows' Handsome New Temple.

With appropriate ceremony and in the presence of Oddfellows from Edmonton, Strathcona and Calgary, and many citizens, the corner stone of the new Oddfellows' temple was last evening laid by A. E. May, grand master of the order for the province of Alberta.

The procession from the Oddfellows' hall numbered over one hundred, marshalled by Bro. J. C. Wainwright, marched two deep to the site of the new temple. Then they marched in double file three times "round the building and around in front of the platform which had been erected on the north side."

On the platform were A. E. May, grand master; J. H. Blackie, G.L.E. O'Brien, acting grand master; grand master; R. J. Stuart, P.G. Calver, acting grand master; J. D. Brown, acting grand master; A. H. Richards, acting grand master; R. W. M. George, acting grand master; G. H. Elliott, deputy grand master and acting grand master; John F. Weir, president of the guilding committee.

When the members of the order had taken their positions Grand Master May called upon the grand chaplain to read the order of service.

Grand Master May having laudably addressed the order at the corner stone of the temple, he then turned to the entrance of Strathcona lodge, No. 1, in having underwritten a large work in the corner of benevolence. The ceremony was a grand success.

Taking a basin in which pure water had been placed he poured the water over the stone and pronounced the inscription that the designs of the order of the temple might be pure as the water thus poured out.

Then taking a bag of flour he placed it on the stone. Some ears of wheat, as a symbol of truth, were then placed upon the stone by the grand master, and the three linked chains, the emblem of the three virtues of friendship, love and truth, was laid upon the stone.

As the ceremony was placed around Grand Master May said that he could not but be proud to be together so surely would they be bound together in brotherly affection. This completed the ceremonial part of the proceedings and Grand Master May then closed up the evening.

Grand Master May then addressed the order. He congratulated himself, he said, in that it should have been his privilege as one of the Oddfellows to be present at the laying of the foundation stone of this temple, which the enterprise and enthusiasm of Strathcona lodge had undertaken. He then called upon Acting Secretary Past Grand R. J. Stuart, of Calgary.

Mr. Stuart, president of the company, visited the park with Mr. Crawford, chairman of the Parks Committee, and he acknowledged that the trees were alive, and as far as he knew, in a healthy condition. They were not dead at that time, Mr. Crawford said, and he did not want the trees, which he (the writer) understood they had not done. This was no new thing, and they could not expect the trees to grow as well under these circumstances.

The planting was done in accordance with the instructions given by Mr. Crawford, the chairman of the Parks Committee, and an order was given by him on the regular contract form. In conclusion, the company were told that they did not wish to begin a fight, but they were sure that the trees were alive, and he was sure that the trees were alive, and he was sure that the trees were alive.

The Canadian Oil company's warehouse on West Railway street, which was moved to the back of the building in the rear of the present Presbyterian church, a great number of people were crowded into the water, and it is estimated that five people were drowned. Later the police expressed the opinion that all but one of those who were in the river had been rescued.

Crowded Into River.
Boston, Mass., July 31.—During the crash at the end of the new three million dollar bridge over the Charles river between this city and Cambridge tonight, a great number of people were crowded into the water, and it is estimated that five people were drowned. Later the police expressed the opinion that all but one of those who were in the river had been rescued.

A NURSERY CO. THREATENS SUIT

As a Result of Trees, Sold for Allendale Park, Which Did Not Grow

Some months ago the city of Strathcona purchased from the Alberta Nurseries & Seed Co. for the new Allendale park a large number of shade trees, which were planted in that pleasure resort in the south end of the city.

The trees, however, did not prove up to the expectation of the city, and at the present time it is said that there is not one of them alive after being in the ground about two months.

The nursery people, however, contend that the trees were properly planted and afterwards cared for. As a result they threaten to sue the city for the value of the goods supplied.

The company last week wrote to the Mayor calling attention to the fact that their Mr. Hall, who was in Strathcona, had intimated that the city was to return the Allendale Park was long overdue. They inquired what action the city had taken in the matter.

The Mayor replied to the letter that the two of the company's representatives had called upon him and stated that the chairman of the Strathcona parks committee was well satisfied with the trees, that the trees were born alive, and that they were all growing and doing well.

He was a little surprised to hear that the chairman of the Parks Committee that they were not growing, but they had been planted in the ground, and he was sure that the trees were alive, and he was sure that the trees were alive.

The Mayor further stated in his letter that he would call upon the representatives of the company at attention also to the fact that the people had not entered into a proper agreement with the city and until this was done, we could not go into the matter.

I am sure indeed that only one of the many trees that you put on the Allendale Park shows any signs of life.

In so far as closing this account at once, as you put it, we do not recognize any account, and you are at liberty to take the trees out and do as you like with them, as they are utterly worthless to the city.

To this letter the company replied that Mr. Hall, president of the company, visited the park with Mr. Crawford, chairman of the Parks Committee, and he acknowledged that the trees were alive, and as far as he knew, in a healthy condition. They were not dead at that time, Mr. Crawford said, and he did not want the trees, which he (the writer) understood they had not done. This was no new thing, and they could not expect the trees to grow as well under these circumstances.

The planting was done in accordance with the instructions given by Mr. Crawford, the chairman of the Parks Committee, and an order was given by him on the regular contract form. In conclusion, the company were told that they did not wish to begin a fight, but they were sure that the trees were alive, and he was sure that the trees were alive.

SUNSHINE FURNACE

Just two kinds of soap—the genuine made from the very finest vegetable oils and the best of modern and chemical processes and chemically bleached animal fat, inseparable as much as possible in appearance, the genuine.

"Baby's Own" Soap. Absolutely no expense is spared to make "Baby's Own" as good a soap as can be made, yet it costs you no more than the inferior imitation.

The Sunshine is differently and better constructed than common furnaces. It's stronger, safer, more healthful. The dome, the two sections of the fire pot and the frame of the ash pit are all securely fastened together by our famous "cup joint." Three "cup joints" in all, you see. All sections, you will notice, fit together perfectly, and are lined with a layer of asbestos cement, which unites them so firmly together that they become in every purpose, one solid piece of metal. Can never spring or fall apart.

And that's not all! The top of the dome is fastened to the sides with cement and boiler rivets, making the Sunshine just as smoke, gas, heat and dust tight as a steam boiler. From a hygienic standpoint it takes precedence in the furnace world.

Notice, too, the Sunshine is equipped with an automatic gas damper. This damper automatically opens when the gas in the furnace reaches a certain pressure and allows it to escape up the chimney. Eliminates all danger of an explosion or gas escaping through the registers.

Safer as well as most healthful, easiest managed, cleanest, greatest labor-saving and fuel-economizing furnace you can buy. If your local dealer does not handle the Sunshine write direct to us for free booklet.

SQUANDERING RESOURCES.

Right Smith, M.P., the labor man from Nanaimo, British Columbia, tonight a few days ago on the issue of British Columbia's financial troubles, and the anxiety of Premier McBride to tap the Federal treasury for larger supplies of the bridging element with which to keep the Provincial machinery in motion. In an interview with the Victoria Colonist, Mr. Smith is reported as saying:

"After we have wasted our substance, we go begging the Dominion authorities to assist us out of our difficulties. We have the richest provinces in the Dominion yet, 'have been unable to pay our way' as a province. Instead of economy 'mising our resources, we prefer to 'create a political agitation with the Dominion government to make up for the loss. No province of the Dominion has given so much away as British Columbia. No province in the Dominion has handed out its resources in so reckless a way."

The fiscal history of British Columbia is a record of deficits, and that despite the fact that the Province has carried out perhaps more valuable and varied resources than any other province in the Dominion. With millions of acres of splendid fruit and agricultural lands; with unknown riches of mineral wealth; with the most valuable timber resources in Canada, situated next door to a practically unlimited market; with the ocean washing its western border for five hundred miles, offering the cheapest possible facilities for commerce with the world; with a thousand miles of railway opening up its southern half for settlement, industry and trade; with fisheries unsurpassed on the North American continent with big game in abundance, which should bring thousands of dollars per year from the sale of hunting permits; with the fullest and freest Provincial control over its resources of every kind, the fact remains that British Columbia has not been able to pay its way, even with liberal assistance from the Federal treasury and has habitually spent beyond its income.

That is, mountainous nature in excess of the cost of constructing public works and opening up the country is unquestionably true, but surely the construction of roads and bridges has not been carried on with such absolute disregard of requirements as to cripple the revenue, and leave a yawning chasm in the annual budget. And aside from this work, what great development enterprises has British Columbia undertaken sufficient to run the Province annually in debt? The railways of that Province have been for the most part built by Federal assistance and without cost to the Province. Aside from the construction of roads and railways, the cost of administration in those matters which require expenditure, but do not produce revenue, should be higher in British Columbia than in Alberta. Where, then, has the money gone? Or has the leakage been in the other end of the business, as Mr. Smith claims—a squandering of resources, rather than a squandering of the revenue derived from them?

Alowing that British Columbia's Governments have never been sparingly in expenditure, it is inconceivable that the fault lies altogether in this. There is abundant proof that together with lavish expenditure on Provincial funds, there has been not less lavish squandering of the resources from which these funds were drawn.

British Columbia affords surely a sufficiently striking example of the fatuity of trying to extract revenue from natural resources with which to carry on provincial government. A farmer does not sell his farm in order to support him in idleness. Yet, this is precisely what British Columbia has been doing, and precisely what any Province must do which relies for its support on the exploitation of its natural resources. And in the case of British Columbia the price obtained by the Province appears to have been usually out of all proportion to the value of the property sacrificed. The end and outcome of such a course can only be a condition in which the Province shall have neither funds nor resources from which to draw them. This is the pinch that inspires Premier McBride's petitions for larger grants from the Federal treasury.

"A SENSELESS PHRASE."

Under this heading the Montreal Gazette, the senior Conservative newspaper of Canada, disposes of the in consequential phrase into which Premier McBride has tried to interject a cause for a quarrel with the Federal Government. The Gazette says:

"Some objection is being made because in the House of Lords it is 'proposed to reinstate the words 'final and unalterable' in the bill to 'give effect to the provisions of the sub- 'sides from the Federal treasury' which Sir Wilfrid Laurier in one of his moments of business weakness was flattered by reading to. There is no occasion for the assurance of 'the opposing critics. The words mean nothing. No act of Parliament affecting a public matter is final and unalterable. The majority can change it at any time it chooses, and the change, until another change is made, has all the effect of the 'final and unalterable' enactment. There was nothing in the 'confidence of provincial opinion' which finally imposed it will on the 'Government and Parliament of Canada to make their agreement among themselves final. The members were not philosophical in dealing with each other or with Canada in a way 'to limit their successors or even themselves, and it would seem grotesque, even from a provincialist's point of view, to say they could bind Canada. They did not do it. It is 'selves some of those present protesting that they had not received 'enough and asserting their right to 'demand more. The measure of their 'demands was the measure of their 'promised wants, caused by their 'extravagance and surrender to the rail 'way subsidy rings. The same extravagance continued, as it will be, will 'again bring them to a position 'where they will want more money to 'spend without being compelled to 'take the odium of imposing taxes to 'raise it. Then this bill, instead of 'being a final and unalterable bar to 'further concessions, will be a precedent for demanding them."

WHAT ABOUT AN EXHIBIT.

Is Edmonton to have an exhibition of the larger Canadian fairs this fall? If so, this is the time to move in the matter. An interior exhibit is of very valuable value, and if we are represented at all, it should be by a fairly representative collection of products. An exhibit hastily collected and shipped on the spur of the moment is pretty certain to be far from flattering. The collector must then ask what he can get, instead of selecting the best he can find; there is little time to select an arrange, and the collection reaches its destination unnecessarily damaged. The easily useful and valuable collection is that which is made from time to time during the summer season, the collector taking time to ascertain where the best samples can be secured, and securing them when they reach the proper stage of maturity (clothing and other varieties of hay, wheat and cultivated, are now being cut, and samples should be selected very soon. Grain samples and vegetables should be added later on, as they respectively mature. This is, of course, more expensive than the catch-as-catch-can method, but it is also more valuable, and in exhibits the best is none too good.

There is an especial reason why Western crops should be represented at the Eastern fairs this year. That reason is the notion seemingly prevalent in the older provinces that crops this season are an unknown, or at best an uncertain, quantity. Westerners, of course, know differently, and when the threshing returns come in, the East will know differently too. But there is no proof like the delivery of the goods. Vegetables that they can feel and handle, and grain that they cannot duplicate, speak more persuasively to the Eastern people than batteries of statistics. Literature is good in its time and place, but pamphlets are no more as authoritative as when they are corroborated by the pumpkins. Photographs are good, but cutflowers are absolutely unquestionable. Informing addresses is a well-earned representative are plentiful, but his words carry more weight when he produces the cucumbers.

ON THE SIDE.

A woman got on a Chicago street car and kissed all the men aboard. What kind of a "mania" would a defence lawyer call that?

Kid Maclean is yet in captivity. It would be interesting to hear the General's plain opinion of "Don Rats."

R. O. McPherson, M.P., will have the unequivocal sympathy of the ex-Kaiser of Korea in his efforts to exclude the Japs.

Conservative journals denounce the Ontario accountants as base-born Grits. Perhaps so, but what about the mosquitoes which chased Chace out of the woods?

The Opposition press is about equally divided between claiming the Conservative parentage of the All-Red project, and applauding home-made rumors that the child is dead. The only tenable conclusion is that they are ashamed of their offspring. What they ought really to be ashamed of is their heartless negligence of so promising a youngster.

Judge Robins of Kentucky Defended. Georgetown, Ky., July 31—Argument to have special Judge Robins sit the bench in the Calah Powers trial was completed this afternoon, and the court took the matter under advisement until 10 tomorrow morning.

Attorney Victor Bradley, associated counsel for the Commonwealth, only of the discussion and bitterly denounced the affidavits filed by the defence. He said in the course of his argument that though it was charged that the judge in the last trial had taken a partisan newspaper to the jury, it was said that the only question to be decided upon by the jury was a life sentence or the death penalty, was an outrage and should not be tolerated.

He said seven of the jurors in the last trial had sworn that it was utterly false. The allegation that States Attorney Franklin had gone to Judge Robinson's home and made a speech on the Powers trial stating that Powers should have been found guilty and that the judge from a platform, assented to each sentence was utterly assailed by Bradley. He declared that the other allegations that the judge was prejudiced in the trial were untrue.

The opposition departments generally failed to take part in the elections.

Doukhobors' Arrival in Winnipeg Described. Pilgrims on Tramp to States.

Winning. Free Press: About nine o'clock, Monday morning, W. Ballou, of the People's Mission, saw at the corner of Main street and Higgins avenue a group of about twenty Russian women, dressed in Russian style, in white aprons, and wearing straw hats. Owing to their unusual dress they attracted the attention of the children, who were not treating them very respectfully, to the considerable attention of the Samaritans that they were passing. The Samaritans, in their robes, of whose mark from Swan River we mentioned before, were passing by, and they were told that such was the case. They expressed a desire to go to the city, where they could rest and get some water to drink. Having been admitted to the city by Mr. Balligroddi, the People's Mission, a group of Methodists, who were passing by, suggested them a place where they could sit down and provided them with water. They were then taken to the city's artesian well system. A large number of bread was given, a couple of loaves of bread, when, after doing everything and giving thanks to God, they were taken to the city.

Rev. J. C. Woodworth, superintendent of the mission, arrived at our stage and proceeded to inquire what could be done for the pilgrims. Many other visitors came, and the doors to the public. C. Genick, immigration agent, came in and kindly assisted the reporters, who by that time were present in force, in getting information. Some photographers were also present. The camera men and the actors and the dealers quite willingly arranged themselves to meet the artists' wishes. In the meantime a second detachment of three men and three women had come and had break-

The Pilgrims' Story.

From the conversation it was learned that the pilgrims had started from Swan River on Saturday, July 10, and travelled together until Sunday, when, near the city, they separated into several groups and came in Monday morning by different roads. A woman and four children, the latter of ages from eight months to seven or eight years, were sent to Winnipeg by train from Oak River, nearly two weeks ago, by their agent, who also had not yet been ascertained. On the way the people had treated them kindly, giving them bread,

Asked as to the purpose of their journey, the Douchborts said they were going to see the president of the country, and they do not believe in killing or enslaving animals. They want to go where they will not have to wear any clothes, and they do not believe in using force, or coming to any country where they are not wanted. They say they will not eat any food or to drink milk, or to wear boots made of leather or clothing made of animal skins. They want to go to some country where they can grow fruit and vegetables. As the president of the country said that they could not go, the lots of many lives, they don't want to use tools or anything made of iron. They say that when the president of the country said that the government promised to give them farms and allow them to live in villages; but now this policy has been changed, and they are told to go and live upon his own farm. They are unwilling to do this, as they do not want to be separated, but wish to live together.

Trade in Higher Power.
Where they will be able to find a country that will suit them and will be placed at their disposal to carry out their plans they do not pretend to know anything about the country, but they expect that God will give them what they are seeking.

On being asked if they were aware of the fact that the United States would not allow them to enter that country, they said they did not know that they were liable to be turned back at the boundary line, but they would be bringing them there. His will could be carried out and every creature as well as every man would be free.

As to the use of cooked food, they looked upon it as a present necessity. They had no idea how far it might be to a country such as they were seeking; but they were willing to travel a year, or two years if need be, in the search. When they reach their destination they will inform their friends whom they have left behind; but whether the latter will join them or not they cannot say. They are trusting, when they go south, to find some good man who will give them the land they re-

When asked what they believe concerning work, they answered that man is not created for material things, for physical toil, but for

All Brothers and Sisters.
The number of men being exactly equal to that of the women, suggested the question whether they were married couples. They answered that they do not practice marriage, but are all living as brothers and sisters. In a couple of instances a man and a woman in the party had been husband and wife, but now they were only brother and sister to each other, and all were alike. They had no leader, all were like God alone as their leader. Asked what Peter origin, relationship to them was, they said that Peter Whirin was a nursing

They do not know how long they will remain in Winnipeg. They are waiting to be joined by the balance of the party, 14 in number; and these it has since been learned are coming to the city by way of Portage avenue, and at noon on Monday they were about a mile west of Sturgeon Creek. They have no thought of making a prolonged stay here.

The prima are all middle-aged and elderly people; the youngest of the dozen now at All People's Mission is 42 years old, and the eldest is 56. They are clean looking respectable people, appear to be in good health, and at all times agree with their burned and they say they have been burned in their march. They do not see why they should be arrested and imprisoned as evil-doers; and they even venture to ask that some one should instruct them in the second law of the nation. The five who are under indictment of the three who are under indictment in Regina. Only three or four profess to be able to read; but they are all thoroughly educated in the sense of having their peculiar views deeply impressed upon their minds, and are able to defend them in argument with no little fluency.

Chief McRae's Statement.
The chief of police on being asked what course he would pursue with regard to the pilgrims, said he had communicated with the government but had received no answer. In the meantime, so long as the Doukhobors are taken care of by charitably disposed persons, and do not conduct themselves as vagrants or lunatics, he does not see that any action of his part is required; and he does not propose to take any action unless he receives other instructions than he

No Dominion Interference.

In reference to the arrival in the city of a number of Dunklebores on the 10th inst., Commissioner of Immigration stated that the immigration would be taken by the department. On the occasion of the last movement among these people the point was a certain of them, who acted as the present and intended to do, that they were not violating any law any more than the Salvation Army was, a contention which the Commissioner would find it difficult to contravert. Up to the present time the Dunklebores had violated no law, and even in cases they did so, the department of Immigration would not interfere in the matter. The opinion was expressed that the arriving Dunklebores, if left alone, would mix with their own people here and give Tangier, July 30.—Gerard A. Movements of Possible Presidential Candidate.

Washington, D.C., July 31.—Advice from Secretary Taft at Murray Hill on the St. Lawrence river, indicates that he has made several changes in the itinerary of his transcontinental trip to Seattle, Washington, and on way to the Philippines early in September. According to plans at present, he will arrive in Washington Aug. 11. He is considering an invitation to make an address in Kentucky preferably at Louisville, August 22, and then he will do so, but that is as yet settled. He will speak at Denver, August 30, at Portland, Ore., Sept. 6, at Tacoma, Sept. 7, and at Seattle, Sept. 9th, and will sail from the latter city on the steamship Minnesota, Sept. 10, for Manila.

London, July 30.—During the course of a discussion on naval matters in the House of Lords today Baron Tweedmouth, first lord of the admiralty, said that the admiralty had in mind a new and extended cruiser construction policy, which probably would be brought forward next year. "After all," said he, "the cruiser is the ship by means of which we keep our dominance of peace. The battleships are the policemen of the sea. It is their business to destroy the effect of the enemy, leaving the cruisers to guard the coast."

Senator Dick Is Not Committal.
Akron, Ohio, July 3.—Following the reading of the dispatch from Columbus today, in which it was stated that Secretary Taft had been endorsed for the presidency as Ohio's candidate by the Republican state committee, Senator Charles Dick refused to make any comments. Neither would the junior senator discuss the matter of Senator Foraker to the committee. He said he would be asked that no endorsement be made by the committee upon the ground that it would be premature.

trillions of small worms. The discovery astonished the scientists, who could hardly believe their eyes until they had cut into the hard ice and removed some of the worms for microscopic examination. The worms, which were about an inch in length and each the size of a hair, presented a wriggling, squirming mass in the solid ice. In places the ice was almost black with them.
